WE NOMINATE

Donald Worner Griffin, one of the Princeton community's best-known citizens, who over the past three decades has done as much as any other living Princetonian to promote and strengthen "Princeton contacts" with all parts of these United States. This month, as Town and Gown together entered upon the most congested summer in Princeton history, word came that the 63-year old Griffin, an executive since 1935 of the Princeton University Alumni Council, has opted for early retirement from the University and, in the years ahead, while based here in his Dickinson Street home, will seek the "fun and challenge" of sharing his know-how with other institutions.

Down through the years, convinced that "our generation had the best of any generation" and grasping the "spirit and essence of Princeton" as they were so often portrayed by the late F. Scott Fitzgerald, Griffin literally "stumped" the North American Continent in developing what has been termed a "modern-day phenomenon in higher education," the Princeton National Alumni Association. This loosely-knit organization, now numbering some 37,000 members, maintains nearly 130 regional associations, annually enlists more than 2,000 volunteers in fund-raising efforts and maintains active outposts in such distant points as Tokyo, London, Singapore, Paris and Cairo.

Griffin, who in an age of "organization men" has invariably succeeded in evolving individualized administrative techniques, has combined his manifold university duties with lifelong concern for the Nation's military establishment. The perennial director of Princeton Town's observance of Memorial and Armed Forces Days, and civilian aide to three Secretaries of the Army, this native of Lock Haven, Pa., in 1959 completed 35 years of military service. During World War II he had been a charter member of the Air Transport Command and, in the closing stages of the conflict, as Chief of the Hospital Liaison Division of the Army Air Forces was administratively responsible for all sick and wounded Air Force personnel in the United States.

Prior to succeeding Thurston J. Davies, subsequently President of Colorado College, as the lone salaried executive officer of the Princeton Alumni Association, Griffin had been associated with milling enterprises in Pennsylvania and Mississippi as well as with a Philadelphia investment banking house. In the middle-1920's, two years after he had completed his undergraduate studies with the Class of 1923, he returned to the campus briefly to concentrate on one of his lifelong athletic interests — football. Today, some 38 years after the fact, he still enjoys recalling the partnership he established with the late Charlie Caldwell, then "breaking in" as a freshman coach.

Griffin, a Culver Academy Black Horse Trooper in his teens, a cavalry officer in the Pennsylvania National Guard in the 1920's and 1930's, and still an inveterate horseman, is undoubtedly the only University of Pennsylvania football captain ever to have won high honors at Princeton. In the fall of 1919 he captained an undefeated freshman eleven at Pennsylvania and the following year transferred to Princeton, where he combined playing on the undefeated 1922 "Team of Destiny" with a prominent role on the Senior Council and the presidency of his upper-class eating club.

For constantly seeking to strengthen what he terms the "cohesive spirit" of Town and Gown; for his contributions in an area of educational administration demanding initiative, imagination and a readiness to serve others; for enthusiastically defining "retirement" as a "new beginning"; he is our nominee as THUNDER FOR THE 300TH: New Jersey's Tricentenary will be marked by a special fireworks display Saturday as part of the annual Independence Day program in Palmer Stadium. For a report on the development of this celebration since the years following World War I, see below.

This Is PRINCETON

BOMBS AWAY!
There Go the Rockets! On the Fourth of July, the drums will roll and the trumpets flash and all of Palmer Stadium will rise to its feet to sing "The Star-Spangled Banner" and at "the rockets red glare, the bombs bursting in air, right at that penultimate crescendo just before you reach for the high 'I' and 'the land of the free'..." 300 bombs and rockets will burst into the night sky overhead.

If you have to ask "why 300?" then you've been away from New Jersey all year. The 300 bombs are the Lorio Brothers' professional salute to the New Jersey Tricentenary, and to make sure you get the point, they will have colored fiery letters 18 inches high spelling "New Jersey's 300th Birthday," and an American flag.

Bombs, rockets, greeting and flag will be the zooming finale of the American Legion's annual Fireworks Program in Palmer Stadium Saturday evening.

Time: 7:30 p.m. concert by the Princeton Community Band under Richard Gerstenberg; 9 p.m. for the pyrotechnics; 10 p.m. for the final curtain. Admission: free. Amusement: no private fireworks allowed in the stadium. They are illegal.

A Family Affair. Lorio Fireworks has been in business in the United States since 1873 and in Salerno, Italy, before that. Dean Lorio, currently the dean of the family, is the son of Benjamin, the founder, and the man who designed the 300-rocket-bomb display, working from his headquarters in Flemington, proving it all out on the firing proving grounds in Millington.

Technically... or should we say "pyrotechnically?"—what you'll see during the "Star-Spangled Banner" will be "150 mortars of shells containing 150 bombastic 2-repeats bombs, making 300 in all." That's what Dean Lorio has promised the American Legion and its fireworks chairman, Nathaniel McKee.

This won't be just a lot of noise, Mr. Lorio wants you to know. There will be bursts of flame and plenty of spectacular rockets to carom across the sky, and chrysanthemum bursts.

The company has been working on the set-up for six months, when Mr. Lorio first approached Mr. McKee with the "rockets-red-glare" and the Tricentenary theme. It takes that long to work out a pyrotechnic idea, from the first spark in Mr. Lorio's eye to the finished zoom.

Painting in Fire. "A pyrotechnician works more or less like a painter," Mr. Lorio explains. "A painter has his palette with a lead base, well, we have our base, too, only it's potassium chlorate. It burns well and blends nicely with colors."

To make an American flag, in red, white and blue, Mr. Lorio will take pulverized copper sulphate flowers for his blue and add it to the potassium chlorate with a little sulphur. The red comes from iron-ore nitrate, also mixed with the base — and a little sulphur. White is antimony. And there you are.

For a good clear green, take some barium nitrate and for gold, just plain table salt — sodium chloride. All of these are pulverized to the consistency of flour, put through sieves repeatedly, tested and re-tested until their chemical reaction is "100 percent perfect."

But this is only the beginning. The pyrotechnician must synchronize all his colors so that they burn out exactly when he wants them to. It's no good having an American flag if the red is all gone while the blue is still burning merrily away.

Or, to take a much more complicated case, consider the pinwheel and some of the elaborate whirling, spinning, multicolored spectaculars you've seen at fireworks demonstrations. In these, the chemicals and colors must be lined precisely to fire and burn out on the split second.

Some of these will be fired on Saturday in Palmer Stadium. The "Niagara Falls" has always been a big favorite in Princeton. And there will be groups of pinwheels and plenty of colored fire.

(All the raw material comes from Dupont, by the way — explosives for the rockets and bombs, chemicals for the colored fire.)

At Home in Princeton. The Juries have been bombing Princeton regularly since 1927. "I wouldn't even consider using another firm," says Mr. McKee. For some years, the Fourth of July was an all-day holiday in Princeton with a drum-and-bugle-corps contest in the morning and fireworks in the evening after dark.

Sometimes as many as 20 drums and bugle corps would gather in Princeton from American Legion posts all over the state. New Jersey uses Princeton as the Legion champion in this league and Princeton's Fourth of July reflected a high degree of skill at drum and bugle.

Fireworks celebrations themselves seemed doomed after the depression struck Princeton. Mr. Lorio recalls that, for the July celebration in 1930, the year after the crash, there was some question about finding the $1,500 needed for the show.

"In those days," Mr. Lorio says, "the fireworks were put on by the town. But there were some veterans of World War I men in the American Legion. I remember Mr. Riker, I. Russell Riker, Frank Burke, Edward A. MacMillan and Ernest F. Diake. They wanted the fireworks to go on, so I went to a meeting, and these men said, 'Let's get the stadium from the University and charge admission' and they asked me if I'd take the chance of getting rained out. Well, I said I'd take the gamble. So the University agreed — I think it was the first time they ever rented the stadium in anybody outside the University for a paying proposition, but it was for patriotism, you know. And I lost money two years because of rain."

(Rain is the blackest word in Mr. Lorio's vocabulary. He is probably the only man in New Jersey who welcomes a drought and he hopes fervently that he has the weatherman on his side for the Tercentenary show.)

Old Nassau. Mr. Lorio recalls with pride some of his spectacular displays of the '20's and '30's. He did Nassau Hall in 1928. "A tremendous piece" and football players and, once, a tiger. After the Hindenburg burned, he recreated the disaster in fireworks. These were echoes of earlier successes, like the Lindbergh piece, when he made an airplane out of fireworks attached to a wire. On one side of the field he had the capitol building in Washington, all outlined in fire, and on the other side, he had the Eiffel Tower. The plane on its invisible wire, made a fiery circle of the capitol, then crossed to "land" at the Eiffel Tower.

"People went crazy over that one, kids especially," he remembers.

And Washington Crossing the Delaware, and two locomotives crashing into each other, with spinning wheels and smoke coming out of the smokestacks and you never heard such noise!

Portraiture in fire is one of the finer skills of the pyrotechnician and Mr. Lorio is quite a portrait painter. He has done Woodrow Wilson, even to the eyelashes, Governor Edge and various dignitaries associated with state events, like the chairmen of state fairs and the like.

To make a portrait, he uses 300 yards of rattan on a wooden frame to draw eyes, nose, hairline, mouth. He outlines the rattan features in antimony (white, remember?) The problem is brown, grey or black hair, but the features are done with such accuracy nobody notices hair once the face lights up.

Mr. Lorio is proud of his imaginative skill, but he is proudest, perhaps, of the way he has projected his technician's knowledge into the future. Back in 1936, he remembers, he was in Florida (the Lorios put on a lot of fireworks spectacles for winter resorts), and while he was there, he addressed a Rotary Club.

"I told those Rotarians that the jet of a rocket is the simplest kind of propulsion there is," Mr. Lorio says. "I told them that in 10 years, they'd be flying from New York to Florida in three hours. And they looked at me as if I were crazy!"

Chairman Named. American Legion committees assisting Mr. McKee with Saturday's program are Alexander Procaccio, Norman Fowler, Rick Robertello, George Boncussio, Robert Schmidt, Fred Klink, Bernard McCloskey, George Keymer, Frank Maszure, Norman Servis, Samuel G. Davidson and James Whitlow.

TOPICS Of the Town

THE LIVIN' IS EASY

In Summertime, People with taxes to pay, dog-licenses to buy or variances to obtain before they can build the patio, should memorize the summer schedule for Borough and Township municipal offices.

Township Hall will be closed this Friday, July 3, to give everybody a long, holiday weekend. Starting Monday, Township Hall will close at 4 p.m., in time for nine holes before dinner, or a good swim. Borough Hall went on this schedule Wednesday.

In the Borough, the Planning Board will not meet again until September 1. The Zoning Board has decided to forget its July meeting and gather again on August 27. The Borough School Board will continue to meet the last Tuesday night in the month, right through the summer, and Borough Council plans to hold its regular meetings, too.

In the Township, things are more uncertain. The Planning Board will meet, as scheduled, on Monday, July 13, and at that time, it will decide what to do about August. The Zoning Board will meet in July and August only if there are cases to hear.

The school board has rescheduled its July meeting to accommodate Superintendent John McKenna, who will be attending meetings at Harvard on the usual meeting date. The July meeting will be held, therefore, on Thursday, July 23. Township Committee will continue, so far as anyone knows, to meet on the first and third Mondays.

MORE HOUSES

Planners Get 38, "Stony Brook," a development of 38 lots on Mercer Road, will be presented in preliminary and final form to the Township Planning Board on Monday, July 19.

The lots, on the former "Bonner tract," will be at least two acres in size—the legal minimum for the R-1 residential one—and some will be larger. The developer is the Princeton Company.

The Board will also take the required legal action on the Sather C. Harrop property that is being sold to the Township under the state's "Green Acres" program. This is the plot of land that adjoins Community Gardens on the north.

ACCIDENT REPORT

VW No Match for Bridge. A speeding Volkswagen crashed

Two Fires, Same Night

A general alarm was sounded at 10:35 p.m. on Monday because of a fire in Lambert House, nurse's residence attached to Princeton Hospital. Source of fire: steak in oven, second floor kitchen. Damage: one steak, totally destroyed.

The same night, at 2:45 a.m., Tuesday, a silent alarm sent one truck from Mercer Engine Co. 3 to Boice Lumber, 316 Alexander Street. A pile of scrap lumber was blazing in the center of the yard. Fire quickly extinguished. Damage: loss of sleep by firemen.

Into the Stony Brook Bridge on Mercer Road at 3:20 Friday afternoon, a large car, this morning and knocked loose two. The car however, was reduced to scrap metal.

More fortunate was the driver, Miss Annette E. Knorr, 17, of 23 Laurel Road, who escaped with nothing more serious than leg abrasions. Township police charged Miss Knorr, who refused medical attention, with careless driving.

According to the police report, Miss Knorr admitted she was traveling too fast for the curve approaching the bridge.

Her car crossed the center line, hit the bridge wall, continued on about 30 feet and then turned over. When police arrived the car had been righted, apparently, they say, by passengers who left the scene.

The following day, two residents from north Jersey were injured, one critically, when their car smashed into a pole on Cherry Hill Road at 2:30 in the morning.

On Tuesday afternoon, Princeton Hospital reported that Fred A. Maguire, 37, of Pompton Plains, a passenger in the car, was still in critical condition, suffering from a fractured skull. The driver, Marilyn Comeskey, 38, of Wyehoff, also listed in critical condition at the time of the mishap, was reported to be improving. She received a concussion, fractured leg and vertebrae and cuts and bruises.

State Police, who investigated the accident, said that their station wagon left the road about a half-mile east of the Great Road. Before members of the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad could transport the victims to the hospital, they first had to pry open the car to free Mrs. Comeskey, pinned inside. She was issued a summons for careless driving.

owned by Leon J. Christen, 37, of 142 Leabrook Lane would have described the past week as a rough one indeed.

Thursday afternoon, its entire right side was scraped by a semi-trailer truck when the driver, Delford H. Dunberry, 51, of Trenton, tried to pass Mr. Christen who was stopped in a traffic lane. The scraping took place on Nassau Street near Chambers.

The following evening, it was bumped again as it was parked on Witherspoon Street. This time, however, the other car was damaged.

Borough Police report that Mrs. Eunice Urken, 54, 410 Nassau Street, was forced to the right because of oncoming traffic which had, in turn, been forced to the left because of construction work in the area.

The right front bumper, sensors and headlight of Mrs. Urken's station wagon were damaged. There were no charges.

DESMOND FINED $225

As Drunken Driver, Timothy P. Desmond, 23, 44 Laurel Road, was fined $225 and had his license revoked two years Monday by Borough Magistrate Theodore T. Tams Jr. for drunken driving. Both sentences suspended.

Paul Perry, 21, 67 Marion Road East, was fined $35 for speeding. Because he was charged for driving in excess of 60 miles-per-hour, his license will automatically be suspended by the Division of Motor Vehicles.

Kevin R. Steochini, 20, 144 Hickory Court, and John J. Kowalski, 18, 67 Randall Road, were fined $15 and $20 respectively for careless driving. In addition, Mr. Kowalski's license was revoked for 30 days. Fines of $15 and $10 were levied against Keith W. VanNote, 20, 5015 Maple Street, late inspection, and Alfred R. Mason, 16, 327 Nassau Street, no registration in possession.

In criminal court, four young men were charged as disorderly persons for loitering and playing cards at a Nassau Street newsstand. Each was fined $10. They are: Paul W. Johnson Jr., 11 Madison Street; Alfred Mason, 327 Nassau Street; Robert T. James, 2 Evelyn Place; and Keith W. VanNote, 5015 Maple Street.

Herbert Broadway, 42, 12 Birch Avenue, was fined $25 as a disorderly person. He was accused of using loud and abusive language against the police. A second charge, that of resisting arrest, was transferred to a grand jury. According to the police, Broadway had refused to leave the apartment of a woman who then called the police for assistance.

For failing to obtain a dog license, Edward McCluskey, 101 Broadmead, was fined $10. He pleaded guilty.

Nelson T. Mahoney, 30, of Norridgewick, Maine, pleaded not guilty to a charge of using loud and offensive language brought by Sgt. Robert Anderson of the Borough Police. He was fined $15.

A second charge, attempt to defraud, brought by William G. Bohn, manager of the Nassau Inn, was dismissed when Mr. Mahoney agreed to pay his hotel bill. Borough Police said the manager of the Inn had asked the defendant to leave but Mr. Mahoney had refused to claim the Inn had locked him out of his room and taken his luggage which contained five years of research in mathematics.

Two Fined $75. In Township Court, Magistrate James Scott Hill fined Mrs. Ruth Christensen, 49, 10 Evans Drive, Cranbury, $75 for shoplifting at Bamberger's Department Store, Princeton Shopping Center. She pleaded guilty.

Charged with assault and battery, a complaint lodged by his wife, Willard Still, 26, 52 Birch Avenue, was fined $75. He, too, pleaded guilty.

In traffic court, Harold L. Ross Jr., 29, Princeton Junction, was fined $25 for careless driving.

The Division of Motor Vehicles announced the suspension of licenses of three Princeton area drivers.

Michael A. Circulo, 24, and Kermit T. Owen, both of Cranbury, each lost his license for 30 days for speeding. Edward M. Ewosite, 16, 9 Harris Road, surrendered his for three

GETTING TO THE TOP OF THE MATTER when there is no soap can take some doing. It's toposia bathing suits, of course—a topic viewed by the men with delight and by the women with alarm. Tom Brennan (left) labels the new trend "prossers", while Russ Davison is "all for it." (Staff Photo)

Question of the Week

Question: What do you think of the new toposia bathing suits?

Where asked: Nassau Street.
Thomas Brennan, Trenton electrical foreman, at 70 Nassau Street building site: That's progress. We're all for it. I think more women should wear them—except my wife. It'd be a shame if it were just a passing fancy.

Russ Davison, Harrison Street chief metal mechanic: I'm all for it. If they want to go around like that, it's fine with me.

Barbara Josephson, Princeton Apartments, Route 1, PHS student: I don't like them; I think they're disgusting. I don't think they'll catch on around here. They may some place else, like New York, but not here in Princeton.

Barbara Schoenewetter, Cranbury Road, Princeton Junction, PHS student: I don't like them at all. I think they're indecent.

Alberti Bredidjan, Levittown, Pa., steamfitter: Let's have more of that; I'm all for them. It's already caught on in Europe and I've never seen America stay behind Europe.

Charles Franken, Robbinsville, carpenter: I don't think there's any future in them—they leave nothing to my imagination.

Michael O'Hagan, Bronx, engineer: I think it's great. I think it's progress. Bring 'em on.

John Schwartz, Hightstown, clerk at Tiger Auto Store: I think they're pretty good. As far as I'm concerned, they should have them on every beach. I think they'll catch on. It's done in Europe and every thing done in Europe eventually comes over here.

Mrs. Blossom Gans, 17 Park Place, bookkeeper: I think they should be banned they're very indecent.

Robert Solovay, 119 Spruce Street, teacher at Princeton University: I'm in favor of them.

Kathy Redding, 39 Linden Lane, student, Princeton Day Schools: Ugh! I don't think only ones who will try it will be the exhibitionists or someone just looking for publicity.

Thaddeus Kropowicz, Staten Island, insurance: I see no reason why women should not wear toposia bathing suits—or bottomless ones for that matter. Society's mores have changed. In certain societies in Europe and Asia it is not considered offensive and we can just as brazenly and enjoy the human form as they.

Susan Wagner, Chambers Street, secretary: They're daring—I'll say that. I think they're kind of a waste, really. If you are only going to be allowed to wear one in a private pool, you might just as well go in nude. I believe the designers said they didn't in-

The Gag Wasn't a Bust

In Sioux City, Iowa, attendance at the weekly luncheon meetings of a service club had been lagging badly. When the bulletin announcing the program for the following week mentioned that a toposia bathing suit would be modeled, attendance set a record—every last member was on hand for the occasion.
Sure enough, a toposia suit was on view. Modeling it was the jubilant chairman of the attendance committee, one Irv Nogg (clad in trunks and a wig).

tend for the toposia suits to be worn in public.

Hy Geller, Bronx, teacher. I think it's a national extension of the evolution towards women's rights which has manifested itself in fashion, and designed always to exhibit those qualities of sex which has, in essence, given them domination over men through the primacy of men's sexual desires. When women left the kitchen, they embarked on a self-determined course. Part of that course has been redefined in America in terms of its sex, which is why we have a matriarchal society in this country. And there is nothing more symbolic of a matriarchy than women's breasts.

Mrs. Lee Krulwich, Neshanic, secretary: I don't think they're very fashionable. Fashion has to do with dressing—not undressing.

Ray Stone, Fairway Drive, prep school student: I'll have to go along with everyone else and say it leaves nothing to the imagination. It's going to put somebody out of the garment industry. I don't think the toposia suit will flourish at all.

Mrs. Julie Lentz, Kendall Park, secretary: I'm pretty sure everybody would like to see one but not on themselves. I know I wouldn't wear one. I don't think they'll catch on. It's against the law, as far as I know to wear one.

Bob Gorin, Cranford, photographer: I don't think they'll go over, to tell the truth. I feel it's just a fad and the only ones who will try it will be the exhibitionists or someone just looking for publicity.

Patti Cashill, 14 Clearview Avenue, PHS student: I don't approve of them because they're indecent. There's no modesty to them at all.

Thomas Wallington, Princeton Junction, U.S. Navy serviceman: I think they're great. Why not? They're good for your health... more sun... People won't have to wonder now—they'll know!

James Baker, Tulsa, Oklahoma minister of music, Westminster Choir College: I haven't thought too much about it but I'd be anxious to see one. I doubt if they'll catch on. We're not ready to throw away our Puritan background to that extent—yet.

Karen Wright, Levittown, Pa., secretary for Thompson Realty: Well, I think it would take a lot of nerve to wear one. I think the designers designed them to be worn on a private beach. If so, then it would be up to the individual. They'll be a few who will try it but it will be very few. I don't think it will ever catch on popularly. Definitely!

PRINCE AND PLAYHOUSE
The Carpetbaggers (now through July 14) has much in common with its title, which is taken, of course, from the northern marauders of the post Civil War era. It's out to make a fast buck.

Harold Robbins' best-selling novel is advertised as "loaded" with sex (it isn't), and "highly-charged adventure" which it also isn't. It is, however, a fairly interesting film that will draw large crowds regardless. "Carpetbaggers" is the familiar tale of the young man on the way up, using people's toes as stepping stones. George Peppard, as Jonas Cord Jr., wheels and deals in chemicals and movie studios and ends up with a full house. Carroll Baker scampers around as his scantily-clad stepmother, Elizabeth Ashley hangs on as the loof suffering wife, and Martha Haver looks cute as mistress turned movie star.

A lavish technicolor production has attempted to cover up rather routine acting. "Carpetbaggers" poses as highly-polished leather, but scratch the surface a bit and you'll find it's imitation.

three hours, involved in every-third three directors could conceive.

The plot centers on three generations of the Prescott family as its members move West, encountering Indian raids, tinhorn gamblers and outlaws, buffalo stampedes, and every other bit of western lore. The film offers some spectacular scenes, including a runaway train that crashes in magnificent fashion, hurtling logs, machinery and bodies in every direction.

Jimmy Stewart, Debbie Reynolds, Gregory Peck, Henry Fonda and Eli Wallach are all featured plus a number of other stars. This over-sized horse opera seeks to overwhelm the audience and very nearly succeeds. The picture lacks continuity, however, and thus comes out somewhat uneven, but is well worth seeing for its large-scale action and beautiful color photography.

The program includes the complete, uncut version of Charlie Chaplin's, "The Gold Rush," a chapter from Pearl White's, "The Perils of Pauline" and "Two Tars," in which Laurel and Hardy manage to demolish an entire year's output of Tin Lizzies.

Also scheduled for the week-end is a folk concert given by The New Strangers, after the Friday 6:30 performance of "South Pacific." The group will fill the house with country blues, fiddle and other varieties of folk music. There will be a matinee showing of "South Pacific" at 2 on Saturday, as well as evening performances at 6:30 and 9.

MOVIES AT SUNDANCE.
This Weekend, "The Gift," which Time Magazine has called "the most brilliantly original at U. S. movie released in 1962," will be shown, along with some brief comic films, this Saturday at "Sundance," the festival of arts at Upper Black Eddy, Bucks County.

This Friday, the two-day film program will show the works of Bruce Connor, Ron Rice, Robert Breer and Carmen d'Avia. On both days, members of the film community will comment on the films that are being shown.

The programs have been arranged by the Independent American Cinema, 12 of whose members have recently received grants from the Ford Foundation to continue their independent productions. "Sundance" hopes to expand this year's program into a film festival, bringing together film makers, critics and an audience to act as judges in selecting a prize-winning film. One of the films scheduled by "Sundance" have been made by a single person who writes, photographs, produces and directs. The result is a movie which reflects strongly.

Person to Person

A friend remarked about the upcoming Fourth of July and reviewed his thinking about the time spread between the discovery of the new world in 1492, and our present year. After Columbus proved there was a continent here, it was another 129 years before there was much activity by the Europeans in North America. Using 1620 (when the Pilgrims landed on Plymouth Rock) as a starting date for a new era, there then began a period of 156 years of colonial life in the Americas before the 13 English colonies divorced themselves from England, and gave birth to the United States on July 4th, 1776, starting the era in which we now find ourselves. He said, "Seldom are we aware that we ourselves are making history, which some later historian must record. If anyone wants briefly to sum up wonderful nation in the world, he might well simply quote the last paragraph of the United States' Declaration of Independence: 'And for the support of this Declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honour.'" Kammier, Buick-Pontiac Co. Route 206, opp. Princeton Airport, 921-2222.

IT'S NEW To Us

WHAT! AUTUMN? Sure, For Knitters. If you can knit in a jiffy on jiffy needles, you can start crocheting at noon and wear it that night. But not everything goes so fast, as every knitter knows, and while we don't want to needle you, we think you ought to get started pretty soon on the wool knits you're going to want this fall.

The Knitting Shop on Talane this is so, too, which is why we are here. New colors have been shipped from Scotland in those wonderful skyward blues, the wood handwoven in misty shades of smoky pink, grey-blue, pale violet, gold or soft turquoise. We like a color called "pine tree," which comes in a small handstitch check.

Another cottage on down the road, weaves "Petal-soft," moth proof of cashmere and mohair, soft as down. Carnation pink, moss green, cranberry and a truly lovely violet called "Parma" are some of the eight colors.

You have 13 colors to choose from in "Munraspun." Try this wool especially for its lovely greens and golds and a striking myrtle purple.

Kits at the Knitting Shop were also occupied all of our vacation. "Malha de Pesca," the Portuguese fisherman's sweater, in millions of different colors, has been designed for men, women and children in sizes 6-12.

If you prefer the Celtic, there's an Irish-style cardigan similar to the famous Irish power, ready to knit in either secured or unsecured natural wool. In Ireland, as you know, it's made of the unsecured variety, but American tastes sometimes lean to the secured. Either way, it's a good natural color. $13.95.

Bernal packs enough into his tennis sweater pack for a man's or woman's long-sleeved pullover, or a boy's pullover with turtle-neck or a girl's cardigan with sailor collar—and a hat for each of the kiddies. You don't get all this in one pack—you understand, just enough for whichever you choose.

Your daughter, meantime, is knitting one of four "sea-shells" from a kit which costs her $3.50. Or perhaps she spent $6, and will make a skirt to go with the shell.

A similar pattern makes a mohair-wool vest in a severely classic style that would be marvellous with a man-tailored shirt this winter.

Like to do your own, without the kit? Knitting Shop has real, undyed, natural, true, honest camel's hair, $1.25 an ounce ($12.50 for a cardigan). It's a lovely autumn shade.

Crewel designs for fall include a charcoal belt, three inches wide, with a garland pattern all along, and a gold faille dress bag with very fine crewel stitches on the side. A pair of pink and black felt boots have been coyly decorated with crewel not only on the outside and also on the inside of the turn-down cuffs. A real spectacular for next winter's hearth.

STONEHENGE?

Not Quite. Stone-ware from England in a shadowy olive-grey combines sturdily utility with exceptional sophistication of design, and if you think that utility and sophistication can't be wed, go to the Gourmet and examine the pieces for yourself.

Innumerable baking dishes, covered and open; bowls, pitchers, a 7-cup teapot, a long-legged cylinder of a coffee-pot, and complete place-sets constitute the "Denby" line. Plates and cups are lined—can a plate be "lined"? You know what we mean: the eating side of the plate—with a soft white glaze, so that you have a smooth surface to eat from.

"Denby" stoneware is oven-proof (not flameproof), freezer-proof and dishwasher proof.

Remember those wonderful black Italian bowls the Gourmet had at Christmas-time? They're back again, this time in matte white, three sizes, the biggest one 13½ inches across and that's a lot of lettuce for a lot of much lettuce—only $7.50. These are plastic, of course, but who would ever guess with brushed-satin finish? There's a tray which is alcohol proof.

When the Gourmet Girls were in Scandinavia recently, they found a tight little nest of teak trays which may turn out to be the most useful thing you ever bought.

Look Who's Wet!

Reaching for a towel the other day after a shower, we were surprised to lay hand on a brisk Terry from Princeton Gourmet, of all places.

Yes, indeed: here among the Orrforns crystal and the Dansk teak and the Gerber steel is a new collection of bath towels—also from Dansk, and its designer, Ritva Foutila, the Finn.

Lined, 60% cotton, 40% these towels are thinner than the standard Terry, with a friskier loop to give you a really smart rub-down. Not abrasive in any way, you understand, just invigorating. The bath-towels are five feet long, the wash-cloth almost as large as a hand-towel. Colors are splendid blendings like speic, orange, deep teal, or melon. $7.95 for the bath size, and scaled down from there.

The largest is about eight inches in diameter, and only one inch deep. The second is just enough smaller to nest inside, and the third is not a tray at all but a teak disc. Use the shallow ones for salad, nuts, crackers, or turn them upside down and use them as servers. The disc can be a server or a cutting board, $12.95 for the three. Kay Bojesen is the designer.

The paper department at the Gourmet has more than you ever dreamed of in your philosophy. Cloth napkins, hot-cold cups, plates are co-ordinated in design and color so

Facts You Should Know About Oriental Rugs

SYMBOLS IN ORIENTAL RUG MOTIFS

- The crab and the scorpion pattern are seen very often in the Persian rug borders. A repeating design, large oval motifs, in the shape of a crab and the scorpion claws are joining the figure together in a pattern. The origin seems to be the constellation where the scorpion stretches its arms in one direction and the crab in another. Scorpion and crab — symbol of spiritual knowledge.

BERMAN PLAYS ON Second Week at New Hope.
"A Perfect Frenzy," the Bucks County Playhouse's salute to its 25th anniversary, will continue through Saturday, July 11, with Shelley Berman in the starring role.

The new comedy was written by John Hess, who lives right there in New Hope. It's about a theatrical producer who, after three flops in New York decides to speculate in summer theatre. The central character resembles, more or less, the Playhouse impresario, Michael Ellis.

Performances of "A Perfect Frenzy" are at 8:30, with matrineas on Wednesday and Saturdays at 2. Playhouse audiences will recall Mr. Berman's previous visit to New Hope when he starred in "The Mirror Under the Eagles" in 1960.

Following "A Perfect Frenzy," the theatre will present James Whitmore in "A Thousand Clowns," opening
July 13.

STOP THE WORLD

I Want Off. Two names familiar to Princeton are on the program this week for "Stop the World—I Want to Get Off" at St. John Terrell's Lambert-ville Music Circus.

Joan Meyer, daughter of Mr.
and Mrs. John H. Meyer, 148 Library Place, has her first straight role, after several seasons as a dancer. A resident of Princeton for the past 15 years, Miss Meyer studied with the Princeton Ballet Society, and at Jacob's Pillow. In addition to work in New York.

Last season, she appeared in

SHELLEY BERMAN is in comedy, "A Perfect Frenzy," will run through July 11.

"West Side Story" in Paramus and in "Wonderful Town" in Trenton. She is one of three resident dancers at the Music
Circus this summer.

Edward Earle, starring in "Stop the World," will be remembered by Princeton audiences as the director of "Richard III" this spring for McCar-ter Theatre. He also directed Princeton Community Players productions of "All the King's Men," "The Male Animal" and
"The Caucasian Chalk Circle."

Later this summer, he will join Arthur Lithgow at the Great Lakes Shakespeare Festival, Lakewood, Ohio, to re-stage "Richard III" and to portray the title role.

"Stop the World—I Want to Get Off" ran for 566 performances on Broadway, following a long and successful engagement in London. Among its songs are "Gonna Build a Mountain," "Once in a Lifetime" and "What Kind of Fool Am I?"

The musical will run through this Sunday, with performances at 8:30 p.m., daily, 6 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. Saturday and 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

"Music Man" is waiting in the wings. Opening night will be next Tuesday, July 7.

SATCHMO!

At Music Circus, Louis Armstrong has signed up with the Lambertville Music Circus for two Monday night appearances this summer, and the first one will be next Monday, July 6, at 8:30 p.m.

"This year is the sixth for "Satchmo" in the big tent. He will come back on Monday, August 17.

Nobody needs to be told about Louis Armstrong, or to be reminded that his recent record hit, "Hello, Dolly," is unquestionably immortal.

The next Monday night attraction at the Music Circus will be Victor Borge with his "Comedy in Music" on July 13.

napkins. Or the red and gold plate with a deep, claret-colored paper napkin. All far from red-checked gingham.
The Gourmet is particularly happy this summer about its Irish non-stick frying pan, 10-inch, $9.95. Weighty but not overpowering, it has a heating to keep it from cracking, a smooth wooden handle, and a surface which allows you to stir with any kind of metal utensil. Other non-stickers require wooden spoons, as you know.

Formal dining, year-round calls for a pair of two-inch, high-align taper holders, terribly white-tie. The bottom has been beveled on one side so that you can stand the pear-shaped holders at a tipping angle. This means that your tapers, by the time you get to the top, are at a wide, spreading "V" angle which is quite dramatic. Or, you can move one holder and make an "X" with the tapers. $8.95 a pair, two holders and 12 tapers, $6 a pair, without the candles.

GAME OR POOL?

Deal Us In. We read a gloomy article in Harper's about how nobody pays any attention to size 16 and over any more, and we can't say that Mary Mannes, who wrote it, has obviously never shopped for a bath suit at Clayton's.

You can go up to size 42 in this shop and not be draped in black, either. We saw a size 42 in a soft, cheerful watered print, and another in blue cotton satin print with a shirred back. Skirts, by the way, are pleated, or softly flared, as you wish.

Smaller sizes may choose Jantzen's white cotton fishnet blouses over powder blue briefs, the blue print with its narrow, pleated skirt and emerald green shoestring tie or white piece embroidered with blue.

Jantzen will insist on that sassy white box-pleated skirt with red check top, or the boxpleated denim skirt with its licking top. ("Ticking? Whoever heard a bathing-suit top tick!")

Jantzen always provides knit tops to go over everything, even shorts and shirts, and they haven't let you down this summer. Try this fourth of July, a red-white-and-blue striped top, the strips all different widths.

And when you go sailing, there's a beauty with three-inch red stripes against sailing white, fashioned with boat neck—what else?—and three quarter sleeves to wear on a quarter deck.

A dark, dark red knit shirt has a surprising little Pan-collar, matches the claret in a pair of batik shorts.

These Jantzen knit tops range from $2.98 to $5.98 and are almost indispensable in a summer wardrobe.

So, we think, is a flop-brimmed smooth yellow straw hat with a aquash crown ($2.25) or a natural straw with a crown like a thimble. But watch a high wind!

Travelers will pore over Clayton's collection of accessories to make a voyage "hot" suds-zetts—44 for $2—for those drip-dries, disposable seat covers, packages of toilet tissues, compressed washcloths, and fitted or unfitted travel cases.

hearing before Magistrate Theodore T. Tams Jr., his case was transferred to a Grand Jury. Bail was set at $5,000.

Police quoted Mrs. Hart as saying that the defendant held a knife to her throat and threatened to kill her. She called police, she said, in fear for her life. She also told police that her husband had threatened to kill her on previous occasions.

CHECK PASSER CAUGHT

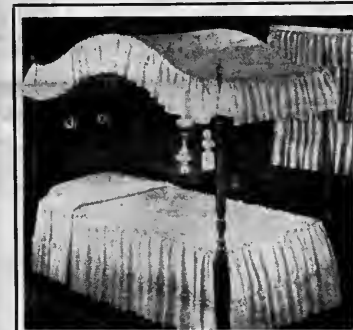

In Philadelphia, A tond check artist who had no trouble in cashing checks in Princeton and Trenton in May has been apprehended by Philadelphia police. He had been employed most recently by the Princeton Inn.

Peter J. McCrohan, Borough Chief of Police, said that the man, Edward Hilber, no address, had cashed a check for $300 May 26 at the Princeton Bank and Trust Company. The next day he cashed a check for a similar amount in a Trenton bank.

Later, he cashed a "few more" in Philadelphia banks before he was apprehended. The checks had been stolen from The Princeton Company, 20 Nassau Street. They bore the name of Basil Stetson, who lives on Drake's Corner Road.

TWO WALLETS STOLEN

Found Later Minus Cash. Two ladies' wallets were stolen last week from a table in a west side room of the First Presbyterian Church. The next day, both were found on the University campus but the money in each had been taken.

One wallet, containing $5 to $6, belonged to Mrs. Robert C. Duncan of 6 Glenview Drive. The other, owned by Mrs. Betty Birch of Skillman, reportedly contained between $11 and $12.

PROBLEM SOLVED

Questionnaire Withdrawn. A controversial questionnaire to a controversial Township school teachers, objected at the June meeting of the Township School Board, has been withdrawn. It will be revised before it is circulated again.

Apparently it should never have been distributed in the first place. It wasn't, in the Borough. Teachers objected to the questionnaire because it asked for opinions, but did not sufficiently protect the anonymity of the teacher who responded. The questionnaire was part of the joint, Borough-township school study.

CHAIRMEN NAMED

By Woman's Club. The Woman's Club of Princeton has named chairmen of the following study groups and work shops for the coming year.

Mrs. M. H. Mesner, American home; Mrs. Stephen H. Beach, art; Mrs. Paul A. Ashton, civics and legislation; Mrs. R. Churchill Kimble, craft; Mrs. Lester W. Coate, creative writing; Mrs. Frederic S. Coffman, drama; Mrs. Orrin J. Wenzel Jr., education and youth; Mrs. John D. Rockwell, garden and conservation; Mrs. Gerald Lockyer, international relations; Mrs. Mitchell D. Matthews, literature; Mrs. Arthur T. Fenton, music; and Mrs. Edward L. McCall, public welfare.

TO ENTERTAIN AGED

At K. of C. Picnic. The annual picnic for residents of the aged, will be held from 2-5 p.m. Sunday, July 19, under sponsorship of Princeton Council 636, Knights of Columbus.

Peter G. Miller is general chairman, and Edgar A. Dormer will be master of ceremonies. Both are past Grand Knights. Assisting are Knights William G. Whitley, George H. Wood Jr., James McGuire, John Golden, Raymond Wadsworth, Francis Duncan and James Cole.

The program includes a concert by the band from American Legion Post 93 of Trenton and group singing led by Anthony J. Vaneila. John J. Stachowicz is in charge of the grand parade, and the Boy Scouts color guard will be led by Lonnie Sheets and Richard Dormer of Princeton Troop 56. Richard Kronage, Trenton's "one man band," will entertain in the wards accompanied by singers John Cunningham and John Melody.

A welcoming address will be given by Grand Knight August Li Cari. The Colymbists, led by Mrs. Ann Miller, are in charge of food, and Mrs. Claire Miller, historian, will oversee the taping and filming of the affair.

REGISTER JULY 5

For Hun Summer Session. Registration for the Hun School summer session—day and boarding—will be held Sunday afternoon from 1 to 5. The six-week session will end August 14. It is designed for make-up courses, for a review of a particular course or as a preview of a course. E. C. Sickman, director of the summer school, reports there are still a few openings for those interested in enrolling.

Swift and Superb Response.

To the Editor of Town Topics: Mrs. Mantell and I would like to express our appreciation to the Princeton Police, Fire Department and Rescue Squad for their swift and superb response to the problems created by the fire which destroyed our home Friday morning, June 19.

We would like to thank the neighbors and friends who helped to relocate our family after the fire and who assisted us in various essential ways. These acts of friendship have reaffirmed to us the character of the Princeton community. We are deeply grateful.

Parking Ban Suggested.

To the Editor of Town Topics: Everyone seems greatly concerned about the traffic situation that will occur on Nassau Street as soon as College Road is closed, which is within a few days from now. However, I am not aware that much is being done about this impending crisis.

Everyone is aware that one of the biggest problems on Nassau Street is the double parking for truck delivery trucks. The shops at the shops a simple and quick expedient, at least to partially solve this problem. That is to ban any parking on the north side of Nassau Street between University place and Washington Road, or at least where deliveries cannot be made from the rear. This should also apply to Witherspoon Street. I am sure that there is much attention being given to East West traffic paralleling Nassau Street, but until this is accomplished I suggest the above simple expedient.

O. KLINE FULMER

3 Ober Road

Editor's Note: Mr. Fulmer's suggestion would certainly ease the flow of traffic on Nassau Street, but would drastically curtail the number of parking spaces for shoppers. How do merchants and the Chamber of Commerce react to his plan?

Blood Bank Is Invaluable.

To the Editor of Town Topics: I want to thank you for your article last week describing the critical needs of the Red Cross Blood Donor Service. No doubt many of the people who have recently moved into the Princeton area are unaware of the voluntary system which has been supplying free blood to Princeton Hospital patients since 1949.

The increase in donors has been commensurate with the increase in population and this poses a very serious problem. Our unique service is in danger of breaking down.

What are the alternatives to our system of blood donation? In other areas, some hospitals charge from $35 to $50 a pint for blood.

Some hospitals require the recipient's family to obtain and donate two or three pints of blood for every one pint the patient received. Consider the Princeton man last month who received 47 pints of blood in a three-week period. I think of what its replacement would mean in terms of either blood or money.

This is our community blood bank. Every person who is in the area served by the Princeton Hospital should recognize his responsibility to ensure its continued existence.

SIX JOIN HOSPITAL. Physicians Appointed. Six new physicians have been appointed to the medical and dental staff of Princeton Hospital. Three of the new appointees are specialists in internal medicine and three are psychiatrists.

The internists are Dr. Carl C. Pfeiffer, Dr. Sydney B. Penick and Dr. John J. Tambascia. The psychiatrists are Dr. Henry B. Murphee, Dr. John E. Caton and Dr. Emile S. Weber.

Dr. Pfeiffer, who will be affiliated with the Consulting Staff, is chief of the section of pharmacology of the bureau of research, New Jersey Neuro-Psychiatric Institute. He is an international authority on pharmacology and toxicology, and the author of more than a hundred papers on his specialty.

Dr. Murphee will be a member of the Consulting Staff in Psychiatry. He has served as clinical psychologist in the Navy and at the Koff Psychiatric Clinic, Atlanta, and is now assistant chief of the section of pharmacology of the bureau of research at N.J.N.P.I.

Dr. Caton, who has been a staff physician at Carrier Hospital's Associate Staff in psychiatry. Dr. Weber, who is also a staff psychiatrist at Carrier, will be associated with Dr. Caton on Princeton Hospital's Associate Staff in psychiatry.

A newcomer to the Princeton area, Dr. Penick formerly taught medicine at Georgetown University's Medical School and was associated with the Psychopharmacology Service Center of the National

Art Exhibit at Bank

The Newcomers Group of the Princeton YMCA is currently exhibiting some of its paintings in the lobby of the main office of the First National Bank.

Still lifes and landscapes in oils dominate the exhibit which is on display during regular banking hours through Tuesday, Mrs. Edward L. Kern, of Princeton, a graduate of the Academy of Fine Arts of Pennsylvania, has been the teacher for the year.

Institute of Mental Health. Dr. Tambascia served a three-year residency in internal medicine at Cooper Hospital, Camden, and has studied at the graduate school of medicine, University of Pennsylvania.

TUTORING AVAILABLE

Offered by PAHR. The Princeton Association for Human Rights is offering a summer tutorial program from July 1 to August 31 on an individual basis for students who will be in grades 7 through 12. Students should call or visit the PAHR office (170 Witherspoon Street, 924-2966) weekdays between 11-3 and 7-9 in the evenings, to leave their name and address, school class and subject. The student will be contacted by a tutor who will arrange the time and place for tutoring.

PAHR needs more tutors, and anyone wanting to teach, who feels competent in any of the regular high school subjects, should call PAHR office. A number of Princeton pool-owners have offered their pools this summer for use by PAHR students, and it is hoped that students taking part in the tutorial program will participate in the swimming arrangements.

GIRLS TO MARCH

At State Fair Grounds, the Imperial Debts, a girls' precision marching group, will represent Princeton in an Independence Day Parade to be held Saturday evening, July 4, at 8 at the State Fair Grounds in Trenton. The Parade is being sponsored by the Mercer County Tercentenary Commission.

Walter F. Fullam, chairman of the Princeton Committee for New Jersey Tercentenary, will be present on the reviewing stand. All 13 municipalities in Mercer County have been asked to participate.

ATTEND Y-TEEN SUMMER CONFERENCE: Carol Henderson (left) and Jo Anne Jordan (center), delegates from the Princeton YWCA, were among 200 girls from New Jersey, New York, and Connecticut who attended a one-week conference held at Sarah Lawrence College. They were accompanied by Mrs. William D. Hume, league program director at the Princeton YW. The conference's theme was "Me, Myself and Why?" The girls were led in a discussion of religious and racial understanding, social and moral responsibility by Dr. William Johnson of Drew University.

GOING BACK in Town Topics

July 2, 1959. Question of the Week in TOWN TOPICS had been "Who do you think will win the Patterson-Johnson fight?" Patterson, a 7-2 favorite in the established odds, was picked by six Princetonians. Johnson by two, with two undecided.

As odds makers and Princetonians alike soon found out, Ingemar's "looner and lightning" special caught Floyd square on the chops, and the title became temporarily the property of the Swinging Swede. Patterson got it back the next March.

A classified ad announced.

In early July five years ago, The Minnetonka Cricket Association regrets the cancellation of the Cricket Tournament. Someone (i.e. Lev Cadrumple) either let the crickets out, or used them for bait. A new crop will be raised in the Minnetonka Caber Works (signed) AARON CRUDDLEY. Poor Cradley. By 1964 there should be plenty of crickets available, but perhaps his wicket has become permanently unstick. Anyway, still no tournament.

Borough police had set up a road-block and halted a New York-bound bus early in that week of 1959. But not at the point in search of a fugitive. Their quarry: three Princeton children. While Top had been in the Trenton station washroom, the 2, 4 and year olds had decided to board the bus and see the world.

TEN YEARS AGO

July 1, 1954. Was a motion picture which featured 15-foot flying ants threatening the future of mankind proper fare for Princeton? Not so, said a letter printed in TOWN TOPICS ten years ago, which urged the substitution on sometime less horrendous in place of the scheduled "The Letter" by Robert H. Crawford, of 85 Moore Street, did not result in a change in program at The Playhouse. But Mr. Crawford's comments, plus TOWN TOPICS' review, at least alerted parents to the possible scare in store for any of their children who were allowed to see it. And as a pleasant "chaser" to the flying ants, the film next in line was the harmless, charming "Student Prince."

Sports celebrity in a new role, Charlie Caldwell, Princeton's talented football coach and at one time a pitcher for the New York Yankees, had just been named commissioner of the newly-formed Tri-Country Baseball League in early July ten years ago. Meanwhile, the Princeton A.C. was in the league, beating the Hopewell Raiders in two contests, 4-2 and 6-0.

Other Princeton names in the news ten years ago: Pfc. John Petrone had served 17th Infantry Division; Sgt. Thomas Dailey was with the 571st M.P. Company in Yokohama; and Richard J. Klemm was with the 9th Infantry Division.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

June 30, 1949. Winning $350 from each of 70 friends in college, George F. French Jr., III, a Princeton junior, had traveled across the continent in 25 days — a week's less time than he had in order to collect. Covering the 3,046 miles from Ashbury Park to Santa Monica, French celebrated his jubilee by pouring a vat of water from the Atlantic into the Pacific, announced that the overland drive was "much easier than my final exams."

For his Ashbury Park jump-off, civic officials had produced a photographer and a pretty girl to kiss him road-side. His California landing was less satisfactory. Santa Monica came up with a photographer — but that's all.

Somewhere in Princeton were two youths who, it was thought, might be able to help police with a deepening mystery: the sudden disappearance of W. Leonard Alexander, Philadelphia broker, who had been here two weeks earlier for reunion with his class of 1922. The youths had ridden from Pennington to Princeton with Mr. Alexander, it had been reported, and had accompanied him to his class headquarters.

Shortly thereafter Mr. Alexander had vanished. His body was discovered some 18 months later when two girls, skating on Lake Carnegie, saw the roof of a car through the ice. Apparently Mr. Alexander, after leaving his reunion alone, had driven out Washington Road, mistakenly turned west onto the loopway. His car had then swerved into the lake near the railroad trestle — and was not found until a year and a half later.

UNIVERSITY CAREER ENDS
For Prof. Tschebotarioff, Professor Gregory P. Tschebotarioff, 103 Mercer Street, was a member of the Department of Civil Engineering at Princeton University for the last 27 years, retired this week. He had been in charge of the university's Soil Mechanics Laboratory since its founding in 1937, the year he joined the faculty.

Professor Tschebotarioff will continue as an associate of King and Gavaris, consulting engineers of New York City. Currently, he is completing work on his memoirs which will be published in September under the title "Russia, My Native Land—A U.S. Engineer Reminiscences and Look at the Present." A foreword to the book will be written by George F. Kennan, former U.S. Ambassador to Russia and now a Professor at the Institute for Advanced Study.

Professor Tschebotarioff was born in 1899 in Pavlovsk, Russia, the son of a Lieutenant General in the Russian Imperial Army. Following World War I, in which he served as an artillery officer and later as an interpreter during negotiations with the Allied Mission in Soviet Russia, he continued his graduate studies in Germany. He then worked as a civil engineer in Germany, France and Austria. In 1929 he went to Egypt, first with the ministry of Public Works and later as a research engineer with the Egyptian University. In 1936 he represented the Egyptian University at the International Conference on Soil Mechanics and foundation engineering at Harvard University. The next year he was called to Princeton.

TOUCH-TONE® PUSH-BUTTON PHONES ARE HERE

New Touch-Tone phones are now available to customers whose telephone numbers begin with 452, 799, 921, and 924.*

Touch-Tone service has been described as the biggest advance in telephones since the dial. It applies the speed of electronics to the placing of a call.

Most persons when they use the new Touch-Tone phones can tap the buttons twice as fast as they now dial. And when they do, musical notes trigger electronic impulses to speed the connection.

The result? A more convenient, easier-to-use, and quicker-to-use phone.

The cost? It's surprisingly low. Add just $1.50 per month to the regular telephone charges—and you're enjoying Touch-Tone service on your residence line—including Touch-Tone service on all extensions.

Right now you can order this amazing push-button phone in a wide choice of colors and styles, including a newly designed, streamlined wall phone. Just call the Telephone Business Office.

FIELD WORK PLANNED For Geology Teachers.

Princeton University's Summer Conference in Physical and Historical Geology, directed by Dr. Erling Dorf, professor of geology at Princeton, will offer a group of high school geology teachers the chance to gain first-hand experience in field work this summer in the mountains of Montana.

Sponsored by the National Science Foundation the conference will be the first of its kind for geology teachers at the secondary school level. The conference, based near Red Lodge, Montana, during August, is designed to demonstrate to the high school teachers the importance of field work in obtaining basic geological data and to illustrate ways of bringing field and classroom work into closer relationship.

The program will consist of lectures, laboratory sessions and informal discussion groups at the Red Lodge field camp. Assisting Prof. Dorf during the four-week program will be Prof. Sheldon Judson of Princeton's Department of Geology.

SUBJECT: GARAGES.
At Zoning Board Meeting.
Garages, public and private, occupied most of the attention of the Borough Zoning Board of Adjustment at its meeting on Thursday last week. One request was approved, one denied and a third was tabled pending further information.
A request for a variance to allow the installation, or reestablishment of an auto repair garage at 36-38 Moore Street ran into considerable opposition both from neighbors and from the "Residents of Princeton" organization. The board deferred any decision on the request until further investigation can be made.

The petitioner for the variance, which would permit a 28-by-26 foot addition to the garage structure, is Sebastian F. Perna, the owner. The building, adjacent to the University Laundry's main plant, was used for many years in the past as an auto repair installation, having been built for that purpose by Jack Cray.
It is now used for the storage of privately owned sanitation trucks. The vehicles belong to the Princeton Disposal Service.

Reasons Versus. The granting of the variance was opposed by Mrs. Virginia E. man, president of the "Residents of Princeton" group on the basis of the alleged noise, air pollution and traffic hazards that might result from the garage. She also stated that the auto repair business would speed up the commercialization of the area.

Additional opposition was raised by Frederick English who represented a number of

Princeton Students In Mississippi

Freedom is indivisible. This is a lesson that we have to learn over and over again. At this moment hundreds of students in Mississippi are risking their lives to struggle for racial justice. By the end of the summer more than fifteen Princeton students will be there. They are not going to commit acts of terrorism or sabotage. They are going there to teach and to encourage the Negroes of Mississippi to exercise their fundamental constitutional rights, especially the right to vote.

These students know that Mississippi unfortunately is a very special case. As John Fischer, editor in chief of HARPER'S magazine, has written: "No one who has not seen Mississippi with his own eyes can comprehend how different it is from the rest of the United States, including its Southern neighbors. In many ways it is almost as remote as South Africa, which it somewhat resembles."

To our dismay, we have only recently really come to learn how different Mississippi is from the rest of the United States. The Princeton students who go there will be subject to police harassment for engaging in such peaceful activities as driving an automobile or visiting a Negro farmer. But the police who harass the students for these normal and lawful acts will not protect them from racist gangs who may take their lives.

We residents of Princeton cannot turn our backs on the students who have set out to work on such a hard front, at a time and at a place where they are needed most. They are fighting our fight. What happens in Mississippi has already dramatized the issue of civil rights all across the country. What happens in Mississippi will affect what happens in Princeton. By helping the volunteers in Mississippi we can renew our dedication to the struggle to eliminate local racial injustice.

The students in Mississippi are living on a bare subsistence level; they have minimal living and travelling expenses. The civil rights organizations that are directing their efforts are desperately in need of funds for operational expenses. Keeping the public informed costs money. Constant telephone contact — across the state of Mississippi and between Mississippi and the rest of the country — is essential to the security of the civil rights workers. In addition, the police harassment — mostly in the form of traffic fines — is a constant drain on resources.

Their expenses are enormous. They need our help, and they need it now. Please give as generously as you can.

The Mississippi Summer Project is directed by the Council of Federated Organizations (COFO), a federation of national and local civil rights groups active in Mississippi. Cooperating under the COFO banner are the Congress of Racial Equality, the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, the Mississippi State Conference of NAACP branches, and especially, the Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee, which has provided most of the leadership. The National Council of Churches has also given great assistance. Your check, made out to the Princeton Freedom Center, will be forwarded to COFO headquarters in Mississippi.

property owners on Virginia Street. Two other residents also objected to the potential noise and danger to school children which they felt the garage would cause.

In other matters, the board denied a setback variance to Dr. and Mrs. Henry L. Savage for the construction of a two-car garage on their 210 Prospect Avenue property. Six residents of the neighborhood expressed their opposition to the proposed garage.

Also denied was a front yard variance to Harold Hochstadt to allow the conversion of a porch to a bedroom at the home of his chauffeur, William C. Hanley, 11 Pelham Street.

Three Requests Approved. Mrs. Gertrude R. Dale, 7 Boulevard Street, received approval to widen her garage by two feet. Her petition was based on the fact that the present structure might have been fine for a Model T Ford when the garage was erected in 1912 but that more room was necessary to accommodate today's wider cars.

The board also approved a front yard variance for property at 17 Springdale Road to permit construction of a second-floor addition. The request was made by Duncan A. Doyle, 225 Hamilton Avenue, who will build the addition.

The board sent a favorable recommendation to Mayor and Borough Council for a use variance for the building of a modern Sunoco station at the corner of Nassau and Murray Place. The proposed structure, of Colonial design, would replace the present obsolete building at the same site.

The approval granted to the Sun Oil Co. included the stipulation that the new station be located on the property to conform with side yard zoning regulations. Also, all signs on the property must meet current requirements.

EARLY UP
Aid To The Loom. Now that summer is here, Mrs. Gladys Hoisington can doff three of her seven hats.

"I could use four or five helpers," she says in her sweet, light voice.

Hundreds of Princeton Township children know blue-eyed Mrs. Hoisington as the one who makes crafts fun at Saturday morning classes in Valley Road School.

Princeton women—and a few men—have been introduced to weaving through her classes.

Story this piece.

WEAVER: Mrs. Gladys Hoisington, an accomplished weaver, directs Saturday morning craft classes at Valley Road School.

for the Weavers' Guild. All eight grades at the Cranbury School call her "our art teacher." She is also a wife, mother and a painter who has found a ready market.

Above all this, Mrs. Hoisington is known as a creative weaver.

"I studied weaving to fill three idle hours," she says, looking back. "It became my first love."

Work Often on Display. Her work is often on display at the Museum of Contemporary Crafts, New York. Currently on tour with the Northeast Craftsmen's exhibit, sponsored by the Smithsonian, is a wall hanging depicting a contemporary burning bush, executed in dramatic tomato red, fur, and gold.

Under commissions from the Jewish Center of Princeton which prides itself on "high quality of its hand-crafted furnishings," Mrs. Hoisington designed Torah covers. Last winter she wore a white and gold canopy to be held over the bride and groom during marriage ceremonies.

"When I took my samples last winter to show the committee and Rabbi Gendler, someone asked him if he'd be the first to use the canopy? The then-unmarried rabbi saw the shy questioner no answer. Mrs. Hoisington recalls with a twinkle.

Shuttle Talk. Now that classes are over, she will set a lot more of her four looms. They're set up in the family's former dining room in Dayton, Ohio, and away from home." (A commentary on the shuttle throwing phase of weaving all of the looms face the TV set. "I enjoy anything on TV that's human interest," she says. "I like to get up early—about 5— and weave. In the summer, it'll be 4:30 when I start. I thoroughly enjoy the morning. In the evenings I do the hand-work on finished pieces."

She has work-in-progress on each loom—a length of tweed, a few yards of placemat linen, an exploratory sample on the small table loom, and a piece of cloth linen on which she plans to apply a design. She goes from one to the other, as the mood or urgency demands.

"I do think you have to have a lot of patience to be a weaver. Nobody who knits, or likes to sew, or likes materials should definitely like weaving. I enjoy threading up my looms. Some just hate it. I like creative weaving the best. When the work is just a matter of throwing the shuttle, I'm not so interested."

Sales Are Brisk. There are few samples of her work about the house. "I seem to sell everything I weave." She puts her finished work in the washing machine, and then has it steam pressed before sending it on to the art and crafts exhibitions, where customers are waiting.

A while back, Mrs. Hoisington was an architectural engineering student at the University of Nebraska. Her crooked path leading to a weaving career includes several years as a draftsman after her children grew up, commercial art work and a bachelor of arts degree in crafts at the Memphis (Tenn.) Academy of Fine Arts.

Her first piece of weaving at the Academy was wool yardage for a coat. "It was beige with a nub cloth in it, she reminisces happily. "Anything handmade lasts longer, but the coat is worn out now."

"I've done quite a bit of metallic work—but that's not quite these days. I still have a Christmas table cloth I wove with metallic threads and nylon warp."

Weavers' Guild Formed. One of her great enthusiasms is the Princeton Weavers' Guild, founded several years ago. Miss Genevieve Cobb, head of the geology library at Princeton, is president. Mrs. Sarah George, vice-president, and Mrs. Bernice MacMillan, secretary-treasurer.

"We went out and beat the bushes for looms," Mrs. Hoisington recalls. "We found a lot of them, some in the oldest places." She gives a lot of credit to the energies of Miss Emily K. Post.

The Guild holds classes in the winter for some 30 weavers in the basement of 90 Westcott Road, where Miss Post lives. One of the looms they use was made by Mr. Hoisington, a radio operator by avocation. Another of his looms is kept in steady use at home by his wife.

"Some days," she says, "I don't touch a loom. But I was when I was getting ready for four exhibits this winter. I put myself on a quota of seven yards a week of wool coating until I had five pieces finished."

Busy and varied as Mrs. Hoisington's life is—with all the hats she wears—no one recalls seeing her wear a real hat. Where would she put it?

Bradley Backs Scranion

A couple of points on Gov. William Scranion's scorecard were added this week by Bill Bradley, Princeton's All-American basketball player. The big Tiger is one of four leaders of the Students for Scranion movement, in Washington who wrote to Gen. Dwight Eisenhower urging him to back the Pennsylvania governor's bid for the Republican nomination.

Bradley and his associates told Gen. Eisenhower that "many of the same kind of young, hard-working intelligent Republicans who were active in supporting you in 1952 and 1956 are working just as enthusiastically today for Gov. William W. Scranion." The Princeton captain-elect is working this summer for Washington for Richard Schweiker, Pennsylvania Republican Congressman. He's keeping his hand in for the upcoming Olympics by playing in a summer basketball league at Washington playgrounds.

TICKET SALES BRISK

For Giant-Eagle Game. Half the seats in Palmer Stadium's boxes have been sold for the exhibition football game to be played August 29 between the New York Giants and the Philadelphia Eagles. The Jaycees, sponsoring organization for the third year, report that some 22,000 tickets have been sold. This is 7,000 more than had been taken at the same time last year.

The Giants have completely dominated the first two meetings between the NFL rivals, winning by upwards of two touchdowns on both occasions. Last year's score was 34 to 10.

The contest will be held earlier than usual this summer because of a commitment the Giants have to play in the annual Labor Day week-end doubleheader in Cleveland. This is the first time the Palmer Stadium exhibition has been staged in August.

WINNER KAUFFMAN AND PARTNERS: Victor in Princeton Hospital's annual handicapped golf tournament at Springdale last week was John W. Kauffman (second from left, the hospital's administrator). Playing with him were, from left: William L. Wilson, mayor of the Township and ex-official hospital board member; Dr. S. Robert Lewis and Dr. Louis Fishman, members of the hospital's medical staff. On the weekend, Mr. Kauffman teamed with Don Donahue for a second win — the Annual Governor's Cup competition at Springdale. (Hank Chachowski Photo)

Proceeds from the two games have netted a total in excess of $300,000 for charity. The Princeton chapter of the Jaycees has announced that this year, its entire share will go to the Princeton Hospital Building Fund. Tickets are priced at $7.50, $5.50 and $3.50. Requests to the Jaycees Football Classic, 2 O. Box 324, Princeton, should be accompanied by a 50-cent handling charge.

KAUFFMAN-DONAHUE WIN

In Springdale Tournament. Winning two of their four matches in extra holes and the championship final on the 18th green, the team of Jack Kauffman and Don Donahue took the Governor's Cup last weekend at the Springdale Golf Club.

The victors defeated Roland Smith and Charlie Foster, 2 up, winning the 18th after having lost the 17th to 10. They led throughout the 18-hole match.

In the semi-final round, Kauffman and Donahue ousted Bud Cook and Bill Bonthron on the 20th hole after having themselves been dormie one. They took the 18th to send the match into extra holes, tied the 19th in par 4's and won when Kauffman's par 3 on the 20th was good for a net 2 with his handicap.

In the match against Cook and Bonthron, Donahue, a resident of Griggstown, shot a 76. He has a 9 handicap; Kauffman's is 19. Players received 75 percent of their handicaps, competing on a match play basis.

In the other semi-final match on Saturday, Smith and Foster defeated Karl Pettit and Moore Gates, 1 up. This match also went 20 holes, the third to go two extra holes in the two-week tournament.

THREE TO ENTER OPEN

Representing Springdale. Three of the five Springdale Golf Club members who sought to qualify last week for the New Jersey State open did so. Al Niederli, assistant pro, shot a 35-39-74 over the Trenton Country Club course for a day's third lowest score. His 35 was one under par for the outgoing nine.

Rounds of 80 were good enough to place amateurs Frank Pettit and Hy Young in the Open, which will begin next Thursday, July 9, over the Forgegate Country Club at Jamesburg. Eighteen holes of medal play Thursday and Friday will be followed by 36 on Saturday.

Stan Dudas, pro at the new Princeton Country Club on Route 1, shot a 72. Lawrence "Skip" Ferrara, a Princeton resident who is the professional at the country's Mountain View course, was eliminated in a playoff among players who had 80s in the qualifying round. Maury Mather and Elliott McVitty of Springdale also entered the qualifying round but did not make the Open.

MRS. WHELAN'S DUO 1st In Springdale Member Guest. Mrs. Betty Whelan, Princeton's personal woman's golf champion, and her partner, Joseph Frelinghuysen, won low net with a 68 at Springdale's member-guest mixed foursome on Sunday. As part of his contribution to the win, Frelinghuysen had a hole-in-one on the second hole.

In second place, with a net 69, were Jim Whelan and Mrs. Frelinghuysen. Bob Shaw and partner had low gross of 37, 39-76 in the tournament, entered by 32 teams.

Other with net scores of 75 and better included: Mrs. Mary Murray and partner, 71; Shaw and partner, 72; Karl Pettit and partner, 73; Mrs. Erica Bauer, Mrs. Karl Pettit, Mrs. Glen Miller and partners, tied at 74; and Bill Wilson, Mrs. Anne Poole and partner, 75's.

The Huskies of the University of Washington came here after the national repit at Syracuse to stage daily workouts. They placed second to California on Lake Onondaga, and will enter the trials to be held near the World's Fair next week which will determine this country's representative in the Olympics in October.

Princeton, however, cancelled plans to take part in the trials, despite a good showing at Syracuse where it came in fourth. California, Harvard and Washington, and possibly one or two of the club entries, are all rated stronger bets to go to Tokyo than the Tigers.

MUSIC In Princeton

BENNY'S BACK

Verdi Coming. Benny Goodman and Giuseppe Verdi will share the final week of the New Jersey Tercentenary Festival of Music.

The jazz clarinetist will be back in the Festival tent on the Westminster Choir College campus this Thursday at 8:30 with an unpredictable evening which may include, as it did last time, serious compositions as well as classics from the world of jazz and swing.

Verdi's "Manzoni" Requiem, with Eugene Ormandy on the podium and the Westminster Choir on the risers, will be sung next Friday and again on Sunday, July 3.

For the Requiem, Mr. Ormandy has chosen Janice Harasanyi, soprano; Lili Choksy, alto; Nicholas De Virgilio, tenor and John Macurdy, bass, for both performances.

On Saturday, the Fourth of July, George Lynn will lead the Rotary Tercentenary Summer School chorus in his own "Gettysburg Address," Joeffer's "Beat Beat Drums," McDonald's "Dirge for Two Veterans" and the Brahms' "Liebeslieder Waltzes" concert will begin at 4 p.m.

Tickets may be reserved by calling the box-office, 921-9045.

FESTIVAL AT WESTMINSTER

Mozart, Coor, Marini. The New Jersey Tercentenary Festival of Music "under the eaves" at Westminster Choir College reached the halfway point last weekend with a pair of concerts, the first by the Festival Symphony with violin soloist Erica Marini, the second by the newly-formed Concert Orchestra of New Jersey with soprano Adele Addison and pianist Charles Rosen as guest artists. Nicholas Harasanyi was the conductor on both occasions.

A general acoustical comment is perhaps in order at the outset. It is difficult, if not impossible, to apply the usual concert hall standards to musical events which take place in outdoor tents, where the informal atmosphere, warm night air, varying aural distractions and absence of any shell to help focus the sound combine to make a musical experience which, although pleasant, defies any serious attempt at

The sound at the Westminster festival tent depends exactly on where one happens to be sitting at the time. The best balance is unquestionably on the ground level in the center section, at the rear of the "orchestra" seats, where it is quite good; however, the further back one moves into the elevated areas, it becomes increasingly more diffuse, and most of the bass resonance in the strings disappears, as do individual solo passages for other instruments from time to time.

In general the sound produced by the full Festival Orchestra without any acoustical assistance whatever tends to be dry and generally lacking in brilliance (by which we do not mean loudness).

Mozart, to Open. Friday's concert by Mr. Harasanyi opened with a brisk, spirited reading of Mozart's Overture to "The Abduction from the Seraglio," always a pleasant if somewhat overworked curtain-raiser. George Rochberg's "Night Music," which followed is almost fifteen years old, and its composer has long since turned to serial techniques. In the light of his later development, the piece seems tame indeed; "Night Music" is nevertheless a carefully realized and effective work within its limited scope, and reveals the same combination of urgency and poignance which has continued to mark Rochberg's work.

Bela Bartok's "Five Hungarian Sketches" are a prime example of the individuality Bartok achieved through assimilating the Hungarian folk music tradition based directly on folk melodies which he himself discovered (Bartok collected almost 7,000 such folk tunes during his lifetime). The five pieces are actually nothing more than orchestrations the composer made in 1931 of piano pieces originally written twenty years earlier, and give ample testimony of his unflagging gift for striking orchestral coloration. The work seemed to find a sympathetic interpreter in Mr. Harasanyi, and the performance was quite excellent in every respect, the best playing of the evening.

Erica Marini was the soloist in the Tchaikovsky Violin Concerto, one of the four ranking "war horses" of the violin concerto repertory. It is certainly a pleasant enough chestnut for a warm summer evening, and as such served the Festival's programming purposes admirably.

A GOOD MAN WITH A BEAT: It was "Honeysuckle Rose" and Stravinsky last week when Benny Goodman played the Tercentenary Festival of Music, and the program may be just as varied this Thursday when the clarinetist comes again to the Westminster Choir College campus.

Miss Marini played all the notes accurately if unimaginatively with a clean technique and a notable lack of phrasing. Her approach seemed to be a rather impassive one, as if she were playing the concerto for the umpteenth time — which, of course, she was.

One could not quibble with her intonation, and she exuded a bit of sly tenor from the G minor melody of the "Andante," but her performance in general revealed the pitfall common to many of those virtuosos who restrict their orchestral appearances to the "big four" concerti: their playing often becomes motorized, driven by reflexes rather than by musical insight.

Mr. Harasanyi and his colleagues contributed capable support, and the sizeable audience was warm in its applause. A few aficionados even leapt to their feet at the conclusion of the final movement in a delirium of joy and tried to elicit a standing ovation; the majority of the audience, however, refrained from such an unnecessary display of enthusiasm which should be reserved exclusively for the most musically charitable of occasions.

Concert Group Plays. The following evening, the Concert Orchestra of New Jersey took over the Festival Pavilion for its second program, a well-chosen one which demonstrated again that despite the relatively short time they have played together this summer, its 30 members are well on their way towards developing a fine ensemble feeling and sense of rapport with their conductor. When the group returns to the tent full time in residence, the present tendency towards shrillness, which is helped neither by the uncertain vagaries of the tent itself nor by the unresonant platform, will certainly be eliminated.

Judging from Mr. Harasanyi's bright, lyrical and crisp rendition of the Mozart "Divertimento K. 136," it should be obvious that Mozart is one of the conductor's strongest assets. Written by its young composer at the age of sixteen, K. 136 and its companions, K. 127 and K. 138 were notably conceived as string quartets and intended by Mozart as "salon" or entertainment music, as they differ substantially from the usual divertimento pattern in having neither minuet nor scoring for winds.

Soprano Adele Addison was the guest soloist in Britten's "Les Illuminations," a setting of nine poems by Rimbaud. A product of Britten's only solo-jour in the United States almost 25 years ago, the work demonstrates the early presence of its composer's uncanny skill in writing for the human voice and his mastery of imaginative orchestration.

News Of The CHURCHES

300 EXPECTED

At Seminary Institute. The 23rd annual Institute of Theology for ministers and laymen opens Monday at Princeton Seminary.

Advancing registrations for the two-weeks' session are nearing the 300 mark. The Institute, last summer, attracted members of 20 denominations who came from 32 states, Canada, Australia, England, Germany and Japan.

An innovation this year is a series of afternoon sessions dealing with church administration, homiletics and speech. The speech workshop, which concentrates on preaching and scripture reading, offers encouragement an opportunity both to see and hear themselves through film and tape recordings.

Twenty-one churchmen and scholars will conduct courses, informal conferences and workshops.

The faculty, headed by the Rev. Dr. James I. McCord, Seminary president, includes Gene E. Bartlett, president of Colgate Rochester Divinity School; James B. Boyd of Presbyterian College, Belfast, Ireland; John Bright, Union Theological Seminary, N. Y.; Robert McA. Brown, Stanford University; Bryant M. Kirkland, Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, New York; Albert C. Outler, Perkins School of Theology, Southern Methodist University; Charles P. Robshaw of East Liberty Presbyterian Church, Pittsburgh; Joseph Sittler, University of Chicago Divinity School; James D. Smart, Union Seminary, New York; Fred R. Stair Jr., Central Presbyterian Church, Atlanta; and Colin W. Williams, from the National Council of Churches of Christ, former professor of theology at Queen's College, Melbourne, Australia.

Members of the Princeton Seminary faculty will serve include Arthur M. Adams, W. J. Beeners, Theodore G. Reibelt, William Brower Edwards, Hugh T. Kerr, Howard T. Kunst, Donald Macleod and James H. Nichols.

TO INSTALL PASTOR of Blawenburg Church, Albert A. Smith will be ordained and installed as pastor of Blawenburg Reformed Church Sunday at a special service at the church. The Rev. Peter Boelhower, president of the Reformed Church of the Eastern United States, will be the new minister, who will fill a pulpiti empty for nearly a year, is a Rutgers alumnus and a cum laude graduate of New Brunswick Theological Seminary, Class of 1964. Married, he has served as a ministerial assistant at Preakness Reformed Church, Wayne, N. J., and Greenville Community Church, Seaside, N. Y.

At Sunday's service, the Rev. David C. Van Sickle of the Preakness church will give the sermon, and the Rev. Dr. Verelton H. Koon of New Brunswick Seminary, will deliver the charge to the minister. The Rev. George W. Crumley of Westminster Reformed will give the charge to the congregation. Elder Louis Verheest and the Rev. Earl Jaby, moderator, will also take part. The wedding's Guild is in charge of the reception which will follow the service.

NEW PASTOR HONOURED At Installation Banquet. The week-long installation services for the Rev. Edward Smith of First Baptist Church concluded Monday with a banquet at Community Park School, attended by 350 guests. Mrs. Adele Johnson was general chairman.

John Redmond of Wilmington, Del., former secretary of the Princeton YMCA, was the main speaker. His topic was "Youth and the Growing Church." Mrs. Ethel Minner made the welcoming speech. Representatives of area groups included former Mayor Raymond Male, Dr. Elwood Godfrey, Borough Council; the Rev. Benjamin J. Anderson, Minister of the Presbyterian Church; Professor Malcolm Diamond of PAHII, the Rev. Walter Casan of Princeton Baptist Church, Penns Neck; the Rev. Sterling Glover, moderator of the N. J. Baptist Convention; the Rev. William T. Parker, former pastor; the Rev. C. D. White, chairman; secretary; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hinson, Holmes, arrangements; Mrs. Lillian Smith, decoraprogamming; Mrs. Onela Hinson, flowers; Mrs. Bella Clark, Hannah Atkins, Mrs. Lucy Jackson and Mrs. Mary Gee.

BUSINESS In Princeton

WENZEL NAMED MANAGER OF Space Center Unit. Orrin J. Wenzel will serve as manager of electronic data processing at the RCA Astro-Electronics Division.

Holder of a master's degree in accounting and mathematics, and a certified public accountant, Mr. Wenzel has been associated with RCA financial operations and management systems for 16 years. He was transferred to the Space Center from the Harrison plant.

In his new post, he will direct the RCA 501 and 301 computer facility, systems, procedures and business programming.

FOR SOFTER WATER

At Palmer Square, A new conditioning system to provide soft water has been installed to serve the Palmer Square Inc. complex. Benefits are said to include better-tasting coffee at the Nassau Inn, higher soap-suds in the 108 apartments and economy of operation.

The installation was done by Yardville Supply Co. area distributor of "Permutit Q," the softening agent. An ion exchange substance, "Permutit Q" is a synthetic resin product.

Princeton water supply, long known as one of the hardest in the area, is highly saturated with calcium. According to the Yardville firm, the Permutit Q system prevents calcium deposits from building up throughout the plumbing. It supplies softened and conditioned water at the rate of 292 gallons per minute, faster than the "Greensand" process it replaces, and requires one-sixth as much service.

FAMILY ROOM INCLUDED

In Heathcote Model. One of the main features of the four-bedroom "Colonial" model home at Heathcote Village is a 19' x 11'6" family room, nearly as large as the living room across the foyer.

Orrin J. Wenzel

According to Harold Levine, builder, the family room is wood-paneled on three sides, with a red brick wall and raised fireplace on the fourth. "We have achieved the colonial warmth and rusticity we intended for this room," he says. The "Colonial" and other Heathcote models are located at Raymond Road, between Routes 1 and 27.

INSURANCE IS PAID By Savines Associations. Insurance premiums for Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation coverage are paid by the associations themselves, according to B. Franklin Bunn, president of the Princeton Savings and Loan Association, 19 Chambers Street.

An arm of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, the FSLIC is a completely self-supporting government agency. It insures members in its member-repurchasing associations up to $10,000.

Mr. Bunn explained that the FSLIC pays all its own expenses and adds to its insurance reserves out of its own income, which comes in part from premiums paid by member associations and in part from interest the agency receives on government bonds in the re-

Children's Fair Benefits Hospital in Alaska

A hospital in Anchorage, Alaska, will receive $113 from a Children's Fair held last week at the Elm Road home of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Duncan.

Arranged on the spur-of-the-moment, the fair attracted almost 100 boys and girls, aged 4½ to 9, who gathered at the Duncan home to play organized games, drink lemonade, eat cookies and race in the Duncan swimming pool. Roy Hultson, youthful magician, made his tricks part of the treat. Zinder's and the Pennington Quality Market contributed toys and lollipop for prizes.

The Anchorage Hospital was not damaged by the earthquake, however, its annual Easter Sunday fund drive was cancelled out by the Good Friday disaster and the hospital needs money to carry on. It is the only Alaskan hospital to care for handicapped children.

The fair was planned by Mrs. Duncan, Mrs. John O'Donahue, Mrs. Theodore Kane, Mrs. Richard Reynolds and Mrs. Harold Erdman, friends of Mrs. Lowell Thomas Jr., formerly of Princeton and now a resident of Anchorage.

serve fund. "In the 30 years since the FSLIC was established, no saver has lost a penny covered by its insurance," Dr. Bunn said.

Since 1962 the resources of the FSLIC have more than doubled. From the end of 1961 they have risen from $467 million to $981 million at the end of 1963. In all, there are more than 4,400 associations in the FSLIC system.

Music In Princeton

her customary intelligence and feeling, her musicianship can rarely be faulted, even when she is not in the best of voice, as unfortunately was the case in the Britten cycle.

The evening also saw the premiere of Edward T. Cone's "Music for Strings," one of the most pleasant and accessible works he has given us. It is deserving of further hearings and should be considered for inclusion in the permanent repertoire of the Concert Orchestra. Friday's composer was present to acknowledge the generous applause.

The late Paul Hindemith's "Four Temperaments" (Theme and Variations for Piano and String Orchestra) closed the program, and we should be indebted to Mr. Harsanyi for including this gem, albeit a minor one. The four marked variations are actually 12 in number, as each section labeled "Melancholic," "Songtime," "Plegmatic" and "Cholerick" (after the medieval theory of the four body humors) is a self-contained triptych composed of a section for strings alone and two for piano and strings which answer and ornament one another.

The harmonies are typically Hindemith throughout — stolid, broad and consistently tonal, even ordinary by contemporary standards, with the frequent mannered cadence — mannered by its simplicity and almost self-conscious emphasis. The variations are dancelike in conception and sections have been utilized with considerable success by the San Francisco Ballet's choreographer or Lew Christensen. Charles Rosen was the capable piano soloist, and Mr. Harsanyi and the Concert Orchestra showed signs of careful preparation.

All in all, the weekend had both its excellent and mediocre points, but the playing of both orchestras as a whole was uniformly creditable, and the repertoire far above the commonplace that one usually finds in such summer festivals. —William W. Lockwood, Jr.

ELECTRIC LIGHT & GUIDE

At Office located: R. F. Johnson & Co., Inc., New York

OLD FASHIONED BY 1980!

Today's Lamps, Yes.

Electrical Heating, No.

Today's lamps, according to a furniture designer, will seem as old-fashioned in 1980 as kerosene lamps do now. One thing that won't date, though, says a manufacturer, is electrical heating.

Today's electrical heating will still be modern in 1980 "because it's way ahead of it's time anyway." The furniture designer, incidentally, sees electrical fixtures moving more and more into the style of some electrical heating equipment!

Wall panels, he feels, will be the light of the future . . . just as wall panels today are one of the top three favorite styles of electrical heating equipment. (Still leading in electrical-heating system usage is the electrical baseboard. Panels and ceiling installation come next.)

EXTRA BATHROOM WANTED FEATURE

"An extra bathroom?"

When and how to make it possible?

"Houses should be updated as often as necessary . . . whether they're 120 years old or 10. And the extra bathroom is one feature most families would build in from the start . . . if they were starting over," states an architect equally noted for his make-overs as well as for his original designs.

"Very often the space can come from within the house. Perhaps a hallway can be blocked short of its present destination; maybe a large closet space can be re-allotted with a room-divider storage space replacing the closet."

"But when?"

"One of the best times to update the bathroom is when you change the house over to electrical heating. If I had my way, everybody would be that lucky."

"In a sense anybody with a less-than-comfortable attractive home is losing money by making-do."

"The improvements like electrical heating - and, yes, that extra bathroom - add so much to the value of the house, why deprive yourself?"

"It's my especial pleasure - and mine is nothing compared to the folks who are going to be living there happily ever after - to bring a house of lesser quality up to Medallion standards."

Electrical heating - often called "the fuel of tomorrow available today" when installed according to prescribed standards for complete electrical home heating may well prove entirely maintenance-free for the life of the house.

Installation of the electrical heating system is relatively low in price. I adhere firmly, however, to the principle of bringing insulation to top peak for long-range draft-free heating . . . and for the most economical use of fuel."

And as for that extra bathroom that started the whole topic?

"With electrical heat, the bathroom, like the rest of the home, is going to be exactly the temperature you want, when you want it. No stepping on a cold floor . . . and no long damp stretches when the nyctons won't dry."

UP-DATE ANTIQUE HEATING NOW!

This elegant relic reminds us of bygone days. Be elegant, better your days ahead with total electric home heating.

QUESTION BOX

Q. What is the best source of information about electrical heating?

A. To be factious, one may say "ask somebody who has it." A survey on the subject seriously credits "the little woman" (far often being the one to insist on an electrical heating system in her new home because she knows a friend who has one . . . and is delighted with its performance.

In this area, however, you're lucky. Call any of the contractors listed on this page. Information and estimates are free.

Your utility company, too, is a rich source of free, expert information on electrical heating.

Q. Which type of electrical heating equipment works best and lasts the longest?

A. Long life is a characteristic of many different types of electrical heating equipment.

As for "heat" that's something determined somewhat by part of the country and location of your house.

Electrical heating, declare satisfied users, fights off the toughest winters of the Canadian border states like nothing else. It also copes with 40 degree weather in the so-called "sunshine states."

Talk it over with an expert. In this part of the country, electrical baseboards still lead in popularity with ceiling and wall panel installations following closely.

Q. Where is the school located that I saw pictures of in a magazine? It was heated by electricity. Am I right that this is the first time?

A. We can't determine exactly what magazine - or what school - you might mean. Because . . . unless it's an old magazine you're referring to, it's been quite a while now since there was just "one" electrically heated school.

Exact figures are not at the moment available . . . but new schools in all parts of the country are finding electrical heat the most practical and efficient complete system.

If You Are Planning To Build, Buy or Remodel Call Any One Of The Contractors Listed Below. He'll Give You All The Facts On Total Electric Home Heating.

COLONIAL . . . with 4 bedrooms, 2 baths, and close to schools and the Shopping Center - isn't this about as much as you can hope to find in the Township for under forty? Center hall, living room with fireplace, separate dining room, a comfortable family room, and a very modern kitchen and laundry. This is the classic Princeton residence, so much in demand, and one which you will enjoy for so long as you remain in our part of Eutawia. $38,000

SWIMMING POOL . . . now that Summer has come to Princeton, this 40-foot Sylvan Pool, with its clear water and a quiet yard for sunbathing, makes this the residence one of our town's most appealing properties. On a wooded plot with a view of the Lake, this commodious home has a big living room with bay window and fireplace, separate dining room, large kitchen, recreation room with bar and powder room nearby, maid's room, 2-car garage, laundry and (upstairs) 4 bedrooms, 2 baths. The bedrooms are large, with spacious closets, for this dwelling was built by Buchanan and his homes are notable for wonderful closets - as well as for meticulous construction. Here is a great property for a growing family. $55,500

3 BEAUTIFUL ACRES . . . here is blessed seclusion in your own woods, yet this charming cape cod is only minutes from town and, for the commuter, merely a pleasant jaunt for the family taxi service. Entry hall, living room with fireplace, separate dining room paneled in pine, a huge (20 x 30) one-paneled room for the grand piano, 3 bedrooms, bath and powder room. This exquisite little place, on what is, perhaps, Princeton's most famous road, should be seen before you decide that you have seen everything. $42,500

WESTERN SECTION . . . on two beautiful acres off the main highway. And now that the splendor of its shade trees arching over this lovely home provides the perfect background for its professional landscaping of laurel, rhododendrons and azaleas, you will see why this is, perhaps, our favorite dwelling. 3 bedrooms, 2 1/2 baths, a beautiful family room which could be used as a study, a swimming pool and tennis courts. However, none of these mere facts can convey the aura of their beauty that makes this home so precious. $36,500
